WAR VETERANS PARADE IN WASHINGTON

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 17.—Over historic Pennsylvania Avenue, the American Way of Victory marked out more than fifty years ago by the returning blue-clad legions of the Army of the Potomac, the First Division, American Expeditionary Force, marched today. It was Washington's first great parade of the war and it was conceived and carried out as the Nation's tribute not alone to the veteran fighting men who marched, but to the whole great army the Nation created to make certain the utter defeat of German dreams of world conquest.

Marching in mass formation and equipped with all the guns, gas throwers and countless other death-dealing devices of the front line service, the First Division, fresh home from France, moved along the broad avenue, a living tide of sunburned fighting manhood that filled the street from curb to curb. In their khaki and olive-drab uniforms, the men swung as resistlessly as the spring floods of the Mississippi. Above each solid block of infantry, rose the grim line of bayonets, the blue steel glinting dully as it caught the light. Farther back came the long lines of field guns, French "75's" to which French officers have said France owes her salvation and, after add the trains and wagons had rumbled by, came a battalion of tanks, streaked and yellowed with paint to conceal them from enemy eyes, but now gleaming and clanking their way behind the troops in noisy response to the cheers that greeted them. There was nothing lacking to make the parade an epitome of the whole vast army American skill and indomitable will had created to meet and beat the enemy at his own game. There were guns of all the types used in France that could be moved through the streets. Machine guns, big and little, bristled among the riflemen; squat mortars to hurl bombs from the trenches; high mounted rifles which peered skyward as though still in search of enemy flyers. Some of the guns were horse-drawn, some trundled behind panting motor trucks or tractors. The show was as complete as the ingenuity of the War Department could make it, a cross section of the American Expeditionary Force.

D'ANNUNZIO MASTER OF SITUATION

(By Associated Press)

Geneva, Sept. 17.—Capt. Gabriele D'Annunzio is still master of the situation at Fiume according to advices which have reached here despite the censorship. British and American contingents were jeered and hissed by the population as they marched to their warships, the advices said, but embarked safely. The French contingent is said to have remained barricaded in their barracks.

PRESIDENT AT SAN FRANCISCO

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—President Wilson arrived here at 9.30 today on the ferry boat from Oakland.

Commissioner Curtis Says That Striking Policemen Will Not be Taken Back Under Any Circumstances--Many Unions Will Support Police to the Limit

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Sept. 17.—Striking policemen will not be reinstated under any condition. This was reiterated today at police headquarters when attention was directed to the construction placed in some quarters on an amendment to the department's rules announced last night. It had been pointed out that the danger which would result from suspension as a penalty for violation of regulations might be construed as leaving a loophole by which some of the older men of the department who previous to the strike had served the city long and faithfully might regain their positions. Commissioner Curtis declared however that the change was made to meet new conditions and had no bearing whatever, on the present situation. In support of the Commissioner's attitude James H. Devlin Jr., his secretary and chief of staff, said: "There is no chance for those who abandoned their positions to return to the department at any time. They are through. The force will be rebuilt from new men."

The disposition to be made of the cases of 125 members of the department who were on vacations or sick leave when the strike went into effect last week and who have since reported was under discussion today. One of those has as yet been put at work of officials said, and it was probable that each man would have an individual hearing. If it could be shown that they were out of the city and did not receive the order to report immediately for duty or were too ill to do so, it was said, such reinstatement would be contingent probably upon their renunciation of union affiliation. The list of strikers who have applied for reinstatement is steadily growing according to Superintendent of Police Crowley. One or two applications are received daily it is said. Attorneys for the Policemen's Union were today still considering court action and it was limited that some statement as to their plans might be made late in the day.

Boston, Sept. 17.—Although nine-tenths of the unions affiliated with the Boston Central Labor Union have voted to support the policemen "to the limit" in their strike for Union recognition according to a statement at a meeting of the police union last night by Frank H. McCarthy, organizer of the A. F. of L., Union leaders asserted today that this did not indicate any immediate general strike. It was the general feeling among labor men that there would be no definite change in the situation until after the meeting of the Central Labor Union next Sunday at which reports of the strike votes taken during the week will be received from the local unions. The statement that the firemen of the city would not even consider a sympathetic strike to support the police removed a factor that had given the authorities much concern. Word as to the outcome of the strike vote of the telephone operators taken yesterday was awaited with considerable interest. The Boston Web Pressmen's Union and the Typographical Union, whose members are employed on local newspapers, balked today on the question of participating in a general strike. The Newswriters' Union was scheduled to meet today, but no announcement was made as to the business to be taken up. The action of Police Commissioner Curtis in changing the department rules by which officers found guilty of violation of the regulations might be suspended for a period not exceeding thirty days, was commented upon on many sides today. Mr. Curtis made no statement as to the reasons for the amendments to the rules but in some quarters it was looked upon as giving an opportunity for the reinstatement of men who previous to striking, had served the department faithfully for many years. Confidence that the State Guard troops with a volunteer force and the loyal policemen had complete control of the situation was shown by elimination of many of the store window barricades about the city.

COVENANT WOULD NOT BIND UNITED STATES

(By Associated Press)

On Board President Wilson's Train, Sept. 17.—Setting forth his interpretation of the League of Nations Covenant as it affects Ireland, President Wilson said in a statement today that the league would constitute a forum before which could be brought all claims for self-determination which are likely to affect the peace of the world. "The Covenant would not bind the United States to assist in putting down rebellion in any foreign country," he asserted, "nor would it limit the power of this country to recognize the independence of any people who seek to secure freedom." He said Ireland's cause was not heard at Versailles because it did not come within the jurisdiction of the peace conference. The statement was in reply to a series of questions sent to him by the San Francisco Labor Council. Replying directly to a question as to his attitude towards self-determination in Ireland, he said his position was expressed in Article II of the Covenant under which it is declared that any nation can call the attention of the league to any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb the national peace or good understanding between nations upon which peace depends.

FIUME NOW ISOLATED FROM THE WORLD

London, Sept. 17.—Fiume has been isolated from the world by the Italian government which is apparently taking steps to meet the situation that has arisen through the action of Captain D'Annunzio in forcibly taking possession of the city and forcing the allied forces to leave. The veil of censorship was drawn yesterday and since that time little has been learned of events in the city.

Columbus Day falls on Sunday this year and will be celebrated on Monday, Oct. 13.

POLICEMEN AND FIREMEN STAND FIRM

(By Associated Press)

Macon, Ga., Sept. 17.—Union policemen and firemen stood firm today on their refusal to obey the order of the Civil Service Commission to dissolve their unions or resign. A former senior lieutenant Martin Thompson who holds a union card, was promoted to Chief of Police after the resignation of Warren McWilliams, the rangy Texan and war veteran whose appointment Saturday was hailed with delight by Macon citizens. McWilliams who promised a speedy restoration of law and order when he was appointed Chief admitted upon resigning yesterday that the situation was more than he could cope with. The City Council after a hearing of half an hour with labor leaders refused to take a stand on the question of unbarring as requested in a communication from the Civil Service Commission.

Eliot, Sept. 17.—Recently the Girl Scouts of Troop 1 had a picnic on the grounds of the "Old Bull" cottage. Hot dogs were cooked on the ends of sticks and marshmallows roasted over a good sized fire on the shore. There were many games played and swimming enjoyed as only it can be when the water is just right. Capt. Vinton ordered the troop to be formed and after giving instructions presented seven with the second class badge. Among those present were Miss Ullis, Miss Elizabeth Bartlett and Capt. Mollie Flynn, accompanied by several campfire girls and scouts of Dover.

SPORT NOTES OF INTEREST

The Portland High school football team would like to fill the open dates in its schedule, Oct. 11 and Nov. 22, with strong eleven of similar institutions. The team will play at Wallham, Mass., Nov. 1. The schedule follows: Sept. 27, Deering High at Portland; Oct. 4, Exeter Academy at Exeter; October 11, open; Oct. 18, Bangor High at Portland; Oct. 25, Manchester High at Portland (pending); Nov. 1, Wallham High at Wallham; Nov. 8, Lewiston High at Portland; Nov. 15, Bangor High at Bangor; Nov. 22, open; Nov. 27, Deering High at Portland.

Those world beaters, Quilan and Hayes of the Atlantic shipyard, who are mourning because they cannot get up against some real quot men, should issue a challenge to the members of Engine 3, who claim that the Atlantic men would be easy for them.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, will retire from the ring very soon, he announced at Cleveland recently. No date has been set. Kilbane is running for the city council, one of the main planks in his platform being boxing reform for Cloyne and his is a strong advocate of heavy gloves and shorter fights. When he settles on a date of retirement, Kilbane will name several leading featherweights and bantamweights, including Benny Valgar, Frankie Burns, Joey Fox and Joe Lynch, as contenders for the title, he said. It is his plan for these fighters to compete in a tournament, and he will promise to confer his title on the winner. He will have several fights before he retires, he announced. The champion complained of a lack of legitimate featherweights, saying there are few who can make the 122 pound limit.

It is tedious to make such a lot of talk about bringing a referee from Philadelphia or Cleveland to referee the Killy and Fitzgerald bout at Lawrence. There are men in Boston who are just as fair as any outside referee and, besides the fight will decide itself. Young Donohue is ready to referee and no one can say anything against his honesty. Besides, he knows so much about the game as the manager of the fighters or any outside referee. A club holding a show should name the referee.

Angie Ratner is back from France where he fought with the doughboys to make this country safe for the home guards and the champions and he is going to battle Mike O'Dowd. Prior to his going into the army he was a good boy and while in France he gave a great account of himself in the French rings.

The High school foot ball candidates held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon and there were thirty five present, and the greater number of them will soon out for the team. A captain is to be elected which will be done later, as Campbell who was elected has left school and enlisted in the navy. Badger is a likely candidate.

There is a good bunch of first class material and with proper coaching the school should have the best team they have ever shown. There are 513 scholars in the High school now almost half of them boys and out of those a top notch team may be secured.

The athletic funds of the school are nearly depleted and the school is handicapped in this direction. There is a considerable expense for suits and other equipment and to raise a fund the boys are to sell season foot ball tickets at $1.00. They are calling on the alumni of the school and the merchants and everybody should respond. Good sports in a High school is very essential and everybody should help. If you never go to a game or never expect to, buy a ticket to help the team out and support the school spirit.

SOLDIERS CONVENTION ADDS COMFORT TO FARM HOME

Comfort, cheerfulness and cleanliness in heating farm houses at a nominal cost has been made possible by an invention announced recently by a soldier-engineer who has given much thought to the heating of hospitals, barracks and temporary quarters which have no cellars. It is really a complete miniature hot-water heating plant, built on the idea of a sectional book case, so that as much or as little of it as is desired can be used at any time, and parts taken off or put on at pleasure. It is called a radiator-boiler, and combines the uses of the old-fashioned stove, the hot-air furnace, and the elaborate hot-water heating systems used in large mansions.

This radiator-boiler is not as large as many base-burning stoves. It can be set up in the parlor or living room just as a stove, and is more attractive. The trimmings are in nickel, and the body can be painted or enameled in any shade desired—as a stove cannot.

From the radiator-boiler runs the piping either in view or hidden in walls and partitions, to as many rooms as are to be heated. The radiator-boiler itself has a heating surface, so that it heats the rooms in which it is used. Unlike a stove, it cannot overheat a room. One very attractive feature to country dwellers is that the new heating plant does not have to be set in cellar or basement. It can stand on a level with the rooms it is to heat. In the past, farm houses or hot-air furnaces. In the case of stoves, there was either a stove for each room, with a fire to be kept up in each; or one stove was expected to heat several rooms, which it did by making one too hot and leaving the others too cold. The hot-air furnace, of course, had to be in the cellar.

This new radiator-boiler, the standard future heating plant of the farm home, requires no cellar and but one fire, which takes no more fuel than the ordinary base burner—and heats all the rooms in the house to the same temperature.

STATE LABOR COMMISSIONER MAKES REPORT

Owing to the fact that the 1917 Legislature enacted a law establishing a Free Employment Office in the Bureau of Labor, has made it possible to accomplish the following results in war activities.

While the war was in progress the enrollment of the United States Public Service Reserve was made through the State Free Employment Office. New Hampshire's quota in this enrollment was 1698 men. There were enrolled, however, 2500. Over 1600 of these men were placed in war industries at a cost of less than one dollar per man. The enrollment and placement of these men was accomplished without expense to the United States Government, the same being borne by the Bureau of Labor and New Hampshire Committee on Public Safety.

There were placed, through the State Free Employment Office, on the Portsmouth Navy Yard and the two shipyards doing business in the State, 651 men and women. When the United States Employment Service took over the work of the United States Public Service Reserve, the State Free Employment office turned over to the examiner of the United States Employment Service at Concord the names of 765 men who were identified with trades for which there had been no call from any of the emergency shipbuilding plants.

Through the State Free Employment Office New Hampshire was one of the first states to do something for the re-employment of her boys when they were discharged from the United States Service. Shortly after the armistice was signed the Commissioner of Labor drafted questionnaires and sent the same to all manufacturers of the State employing ten or more people. He also drew up questionnaires to cover the mercantile establishments of the State and farms which employed farm labor.

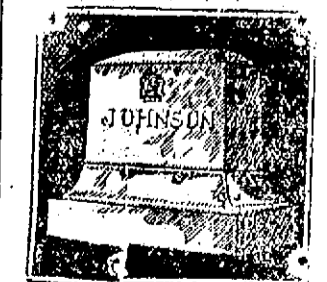

The result, in so far as it related to returning soldiers and sailors in New Hampshire, was most gratifying. It appeared from the returns coming in to the office that it was the intention of all New Hampshire employers to re-employ their former employees who had been in the United States Service.

NEW WAY of Heating $114 World's Greatest Invention

Simple way of heating a four-room cellarless cottage by IDEAL-Arcola Radiator-Boiler and three AMERICAN Radiators

Easy heating of a cellarless office building by our IDEAL-Arcola Radiator-Boiler and two AMERICAN Radiators

New IDEAL-Arcola Radiator-Boiler

Puts IDEAL Hot Water Heating comfort at low cost in cottages and stores, with or without cellars; heats each flat separately, etc.

The IDEAL-Arcola takes the place of a parlor stove. But a stove wastes much of its heat up the chimney, whereas the IDEAL-Arcola conveys its heat by hot water circulation through pipe-connected AMERICAN Radiators stationed in the adjoining rooms. Every bit of the big volume of heat developed from each pound of fuel is therefore made useful in keeping ALL the rooms uniformly, healthfully warm. There is no coal-waste. The IDEAL-Arcola does not rust out or wear out—will outlast the building—is a genuine, permanent investment!

Shipped complete ready for immediate operation

The beauty of the IDEAL-Arcola method is that no cellar is needed. Everything is on one floor. The Arcola is placed in any room that has a chimney connection. No running to cellar. If there are two or more tenants in the building, each can have his own Arcola and make the temperature to suit his own needs—can make his own climate! If you do not wish at first to heat the entire building, buy a small size IDEAL-Arcola and later on buy extra sections for the IDEAL-Arcola and two or three more radiators to warm other rooms.

Cleanly heating—healthful heating—
free from fire-risk

Unlike stoves, there are no coal-gas leaks into the living-rooms. The IDEAL-Arcola delivers soft, radiant warmth—not the dry, burnt-out atmosphere of stove heating. There is no fire-risk to building—no danger to children—burns hard or soft coal or coke—fire lasts for hours! The Arcola changes a house into a cozy home! Buy it NOW, at today's attractive figure.

Catalog showing open views of houses, individual flats, stores, offices, etc., with the IDEAL-Arcola Boiler in position will be mailed (free). Write today

A Mixed Situation.

In the midst of all the complaining about the high cost of living there comes occasionally a cheering and encouraging note, showing that the country has not yet gone to the dogs and indicating that it not to go to the dogs, notwithstanding the trying experiences which most people are undergoing in one way or another.

Figures have lately been presented which show that there are fewer people in the almshouse of New England than there have been before for a number of years. There has been a decided falling off in admissions during the last six months, and the same is said to be true of other parts of the country as well as of New England. Not only have there been fewer admissions to almshouses, but to other charitable institutions, all of which goes to show that while the cost of living is high, the people are managing in one way or another to keep the wolf from the door and to reduce the population which is dependent upon charity.

This gratifying change is attributed to the abundance of employment, the high wages paid to skilled and unskilled labor and an unprecedented practice of thrift due to habits formed during the war. Without doubt this is as good an explanation as can be given, and yet side by side with this showing stands the claim that never before in the history of the country was there such an era of extravagance. Amusement resorts are crowded to the doors daily and nightly; there never were so many automobiles on the roads; expensive clothing and shoes are being worn by people who have to work for their living. At the same time savings banks deposits are rapidly and steadily increasing.

And yet there is a feeling that profiteering is rampant in the land and that the people are being compelled to pay more than they should for the common necessities of life. The prices of many articles cannot justly be attributed entirely to the rate of wages. It is evident that the manufacturers of and dealers in these articles are aware that money is plentiful and are out for making hay while the sun shines.

There is a strong hope that the government will ultimately be able to bring the profiteers to terms and compel them to give the people a square deal, which is all they ask. They do not expect that with wages and costs at their present level commodities can be sold at pre-war prices, but they believe that present prices are, as a rule, higher than they need to be even under present conditions, and that something should be done to relieve a situation which is all the more exasperating because of the deep-seated conviction that it is unnecessary.

Under all the circumstances the practice of thrift to the greatest possible extent is to be strongly commended at this time. The time will come when prices will be lower, but with lower prices there is likely to come lower wages. When that time comes the purchasing power of the dollar will be increased, and the dollars tucked away now will count for more than they do when they are allowed to slip away on the principle of "Easy come, easy go."

Baltimore is a proud city just now. The celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship in this country, which took place in that city, opened last Sunday with 25,000 Odd Fellows present from all parts of the country, while at the same time was in the city Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, who in his first public address in this country reminded his hearers that "Baltimore is the cradle of the Catholic faith in the New World."

The Red Cross is usually to be found close to the scene of trouble, but it is to be noticed that the conference of the New England division of that organization, which was scheduled to be held in Boston, the 16th, was moved "back of the lines" as far as Worcester. The atmosphere of Boston of late has not been congenial to gatherings of that sort.

Some of the men "higher up" are beginning to inquire why a postmaster for Boston is not appointed. The appointment is ostensibly to be made under civil service rules and there are plenty of good men on the eligible list. What is the trouble Mr. Burleson?

The Hampton Beach carnival, like other out-door events this fall, had to have its wrestle with the weather, but was very successful in spite of the fact. It has been rather a rusty season for fairs and other open-air events.

A woman now holds the position of assistant bacteriologist in the state laboratory. Women are rapidly coming to the front in many important lines, and very soon they will stand on an equality with men in the exercise of the franchise.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

They Will Reap What They Sow
(From the Williamsport, Pa., Gazette and Bulletin)

If there is coal famine those six-hour-a-day miners need not expect to be supplied with their coal very promptly next winter.

Even Labor Has Needs
(From the Springfield Union)

One fact which should be kept in mind by the labor men who are so unconcernedly advocating a general strike of all the Boston unions is that with all public and private services cut off, their own families would suffer quite as much as the families of those that are not members of labor unions. The general strike is a two-edged weapon, and it cuts both ways.

Not Strikers—Deserters
Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts hit the nail on the head when he said that the Boston policemen are not strikers but deserters. Police officers in the several cities of the country are public servants—public officials, just as much as a mayor or governor, or an officer or a private in the army. They take an oath to support the constitution and the laws of the country. When they "strike" they cannot be looked upon anything else than deserters. Commissioner Curtis of the Boston police department has the support of the governor and the public in refusing to reinstate any policeman who deserted his post of duty and violated his oath of office.

The Boston policemen have decided to call off their "strike" in accordance with the recommendation of Mr. Compers. However, the fundamental question as to the propriety, and even right of policemen to join the American Federation of Labor is not yet answered. Are not leaders of organized labor justifying their cause when they countenance or permit "affiliation" with the groups of employees of federal, state or city governments?

Constitutional Theory Defined
(David Jane Hill in The Review)

The constitutional theory is, in brief: 1. That government should consist in limited and specifically delegated powers; 2. That these powers should be so separated and divided that no individual or group should control all of them; 3. That the exercise of them should be confined to responsible representatives of the whole people; 4. That legislation should be limited by the provisions of a fundamental law; 5. That this law should contain guarantees of personal rights and liberties that should never be taken away by legislation; 6. That this charter of liberty may be amplified, but never be changed by a mere majority of the people, and only by the deliberate act of a plurality so predominant as to prevent any group interest from exercising its arbitrary will in violation of the inherent rights and liberties of an otherwise defenseless minority; and 7. The establishment of a supreme judiciary charged with the duty of seeing that the fundamental law is not violated by any State or Federal legislation.

That is, in essence, the American theory of constitutional government. That is what is now attacked; and what we have to consider is whether or not it is worth while to defend it, and by what means.

Should Be Generally Heeded
(From the New York Tribune)

The Mayor has written a letter to the police commissioner to remind him that banditry in a large city is something one does not tolerate. He says:

From time to time bandit gangs in high-powered automobiles have made a practice of holding up people in apartments and hotels. Would it not be wise at this time to instruct the patrolmen on posts where hold-ups of these kinds are likely to occur after twelve o'clock at night to make an investigation as to the occupants of the cars, and if anything suspicious appears, to take the number of the chauffeur, and question the occupants of the car at the business in that immediate neighborhood?

The practice complained of by the Mayor is, indeed, reprehensible. The restraint with which he writes about it is probably owing to the fact that his criticism was meant to be, and is constructive. He suggests how the evil may be greatly abated, if he abolished altogether. It is so simple we wonder it was not thought of before. Patrolmen should be "on posts" where hold-ups of these kinds are liable to occur after 12 o'clock. We are sure the whole community will support the Mayor in this reasonable suggestion.

Root Out Unionizing
(From the Brooklyn Eagle)

The unionizing of a police department ought to be as impossible as the unionizing of an army. No community should turn a deaf ear to the reasonable demands of the police force regarding salaries and hours of labor, but when police attempt to assert what they call their rights by turning over a city to the mercy of thugs and assassins they forfeit public respect and commit a crime for which punishment should be swift and severe. The Boston police have not only challenged the city, they have challenged the state, and if the city and the state co-operate with courage and promptness they cannot only break the strike but also administer a needed check to the activity of labor agitators and organizers in trespassing upon government preserves.

Boston and the state of Massachusetts will do a service to the country as a whole if they make an example of the men who fomented the strike. The example is sorely needed. It would be helpful to government everywhere and public opinion would universally commend it. It will not be enough merely to patch up differences and get the majority of the strikers back to work. The ringleaders should be summarily dealt with and the unionizing principle rooted out of the police department for good and all. No settlement that leaves unionism at work among the police can be regarded as other than a bid for further trouble and the repetition of the amazing scenes which have disgraced a foremost American city.

May Grant a Touchdown
(From the Baltimore American)

In pitching into a boss who conscientiously differ with him on the League of Nations President Wilson is likely to find he has lost control of the ball.

A Distinction with a Difference
(From the New York World)

Seattle I. W. W. greeted the President with placards bidding him "Free Political Prisoners!" He might if there were any. Debs was convicted of a special crime of disloyalty. Mooney was convicted, right or wrong, of complicity in a most atrocious murder.

Boston Herself Again
(From the Boston Post)

It has been a strenuous week for Boston—a chapter in her history never to be forgotten. Boston is not proud of the record; in some respects it is very black.

The policeman's strike on Tuesday evening, last, coming after everybody with any public spirit had exhausted all efforts at securing an amicable settlement of the difficulty, was followed by the temporary reign of riot and disorder in this law-loving community.

But the darkest days have passed and it is now clear that there are some important compensations. The strike or the "Desertion of Duty" by the policeman, as the governor phrases it, is a failure. That is perfectly clear. Perhaps it is as well that the issue has been fought out, rather than that the monies should continue to hang over the city. It will be a long time before there will occur another strike by Boston policemen. The lesson has been learned in the hard school of experience. It is a severe lesson and it will be long remembered.

There will be no sympathetic strike in connection with the police walk-out. The clarifying utterances of President Wilson, the firm position of the commissioner, the strong action of his Excellency Governor Coolidge, the commendable attitude of Mayor Peters, the sober second thought of the labor leaders, the growth of conservative sentiment in the ranks of organized labor itself, and above all the decisive and irrefutable state of public opinion all of these unite to render anything resembling a general strike impossible. Thus, law and order which out in our good old city, and it will be many a day before it is threatened in like manner. Boston is herself again.

Which Path Mr. Compers
(From the New York Herald)

If it is true, as Mr. Compers says in his public appeal to Governor Coolidge, that "when policemen accept charters from the American Federation of Labor it is with the distinct understanding that strike action will not be resorted to and no obligation is assumed which in any way conflicts with their oaths or duty," it seems to follow that the responsibility of initiating the Boston strike rests with the policeman and not with Police Commissioner Curtis.

Mr. Compers says that Commissioner Curtis is "vested with individual authority" and thereby has declined the places of about fourteen hundred policemen vacant. What else could the commissioner or the governor, his superior, do under the circumstances? And how can Mr. Compers see any justification whatsoever for the "strike" if membership of policemen in the American Federation of Labor is understood to be with the understanding that strike action will not be resorted to?

Mr. Compers cannot carry water on both shoulders. He must make a choice between the path to law and order and the recognition of established authority and that leading to deliberate defiance or anarchy and violation of an oath of office.

Dismissed and Disgraced
(From the New York World)

When Samuel Compers says to the governor of Massachusetts that the refusal of Commissioner Curtis to reinstate the striking policemen of Boston is "autocratic" and "antagonistic to the great American labor movement," he betrays his own declaration that the Federation of Labor is unionizing police forces on the distinct understanding that they shall not engage in strikes.

That organization has some admirable principles, but hostility to strikes when duly proclaimed is not one of them. The policing of great cities is not and never can be made a part of the great American labor movement. If unionism has been anywhere in evidence during the last few days in Boston it was visible in the union of policemen, which to gain its end did not hesitate to deliver the city into the hands of the mob.

Policemen are not to be classed with the workmen of industry. Their service is voluntary, but once entered upon it is subject to discipline which does not apply to labor in general; it is inspired through by the highest responsibilities to the public as a whole, and more over, it is bound by the obligations of an oath. When such men abandon their posts and defy their officers, they are truly characterized as deserters and might fairly be denounced in much harsher terms.

The proposition advanced by Mr. Compers that in the interest of peace and progress all who engage in this conspiracy, unrepentant and in most cases defiant, be returned to their places, reveals a shocking failure to appreciate the gravity of their offense. They sought by desperate means to enforce their will upon city and State. It was purpose to subvert, not a private employer, but a sovereignty to which they owed allegiance. A small minority of the people, they hoped by their perfidy and the violence that they would follow in its wake to gain ascendancy over millions of people.

Lenine and Trotsky adopted the same methods in Russia. They corrupted the police and the army. With forces thus recruited they seized the Government. By terror they disarmed opposition and by promises of plunder and idleness they debauched the workmen of the shops and the farms. They destroyed a popular Government and they have not yet ventured to submit their tyrannous usurpation to the judgment of the people. The policeman of Boston, similarly inspired, boldly undertook to set up a Soviet which is successful would have been superior to the Commonwealth.

Properly refusing to consider the Boston revolt a part of the great American labor movement, the Massachusetts authorities have penalized it as it deserves. By resolutely adhering to that policy they will have the cordial approval of law-abiding Americans. The men dismissed are also disgraced, not for a day but for all time. As for Mr. Compers and the Federation of Labor, let them practice what they preach.

BUY YOUR COAL NOW

Harry A. Garfield, U. S. Fuel Administrator, says: "Buy now—in August or the autumn will be too late. A big coal shortage is coming. Thousands of miners are going back to Europe. Coal production has fallen off considerably and a shortage of many million tons looks probable. My advice to consumers is to buy NOW while they can get a selection and DELIVERY."

"I feel bound to say that, as I see the situation, we are likely to experience a coal famine in the fall."

Walker T. Hines, Director Gen. of U. S. Railroad Administration, says: "Unless the consumer buys his coal this summer he is going to find it difficult to get it this fall and winter. I predict a shortage of cars because of resumption of business in general, with which the coal industry must share transportation facilities. There are plenty of cars today and consumers of coal are urged to use them while they can get them."

R. R. SCHEDULES SIMPLIFIED

A long felt want in the way of clear concise and accurate railroad information has been realized in the new pocket Railroad Guide recently issued by the Moulton & Brown Advertising Agency of this city.

This booklet, containing besides railroad time tables, many new and instructive features never before available to the general public. It gives the latest railroad fares to all points on the B. & M. Railroad, also the principal points in Maine and the other New England states and all the large and important cities in the United States.

One point of great value is the table of commutation fares showing the cost of monthly and 25 ride tickets to the nearby cities and towns.

The timetables are a revelation to those who have grown weary trying to find from the usual railroad timetable the answer to these old and oft repeated questions "When do we go?" and "What time do we get there?" This booklet is the Moulton & Brown Guide are readable at a glance and show the arrival and departure of all trains between Portsmouth and all points. The rail service between Boston and New York is also shown as well as the Federal and Colonial express between Boston and New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

Another very important feature of the Guide is the new Portsmouth Fire Alarm card (this being contained in another booklet).

All in all the Moulton & Brown Guide is acknowledged by all who have seen it to be the best and most comprehensive book of its kind ever distributed in this vicinity. These Pocket Guides are distributed to the public free and are now in the hands of the principal merchants and business men of Portsmouth as well as the Chamber of Commerce and will be given out on request while the supply lasts, but the demand has been very large so all who can should secure their copy at once.

GOT DRUNK WHEN HUNS LOST; SMILED WHEN THEY WON

Mrs. Mamie G. Muller told Vice-Chancellor William M. Lewis in Paterson, N. J., divorce court, on Monday that her husband, Alfred Muller, got as drunk as possible when the German armies suffered a reverse, and came home and smiled sweetly upon her when they gained.

"He was a war barometer," she said. "I could always tell how the war was going by the way he came home nights."

Mrs. Muller was before the Chancellor in her action for divorce, in which she alleged cruelty, declaring her husband beat her. A decree nisi was granted to her, which will be made absolute in six months, with permission to resume her maiden name.

"My husband," she said, "is an enemy alien. His sympathies are with the Germans, while I am American born and pro-Ally. Because my husband is a German I was forced to take out a permit to live in Paterson, where I was born."

We urge those of you who have not witnessed the interesting and instructive demonstrations given today at our service station, by Goodyear factory experts, to be sure and take it in tomorrow, Thursday, as that will positively be the last opportunity to meet them and observe their methods for conserving mileage and lengthening the life of tires we shall be able to offer you.

We can assure you that a visit here tomorrow will be well worth your while and be the means of effecting a real cash saving on your tires in the future.

Whether you trade here or elsewhere, drop in tomorrow.

CAN'T PUT HIM IN THE ANANIAS CLUB

Photograph Shows Big Halibut Which Fell at Seabrook Beach.

This man would be on record as a third degree member of the Ananias Club if he did not have the proof to back up his statement. Greenleaf W. Pickard of Boston, a consulting engineer of the Wireless Specialties Apparatus, has pictures of halibut which fell at Seabrook beach during the storm of Aug. 24. Judging from the photos, some of the halibut were a good two inches in diameter. Mr. Pickard also sends photos of broken glass, scattered shingles, ripped wire screens and other damage due to the hail.

TANKS DON'T LAST LONG IN WAR

Washington, Sept. 16.—The average life of a tank in battle was 47 days, and nearly one-half of the American fleet of 78 were put out of action the first day of the Argonne battle, Brig. Gen. Samuel D. Rockenbach, Tank Corps commandant has disclosed these figures to the Senate Military Committee in urging continued development of tanks, pointing out that, despite the damage to the tanks, casualties among the crews were light.

In August, 1917, he said, the United States had no tanks but obtained 150 from the French in September. In the St. Mihiel fighting, 417 French, British and American tanks took part. In the Argonne, while the American fleet of 78 tanks was reduced to 48 the second day and to 24 ultimately, only six were left by shells.

At one time plans were considered for equipping tankettes with tin covers to resemble tanks. It was expected the enemy would surrender when the tanks were in sight, so great was the fear of tanks.

TOP-SURFACING NEW STATE ROAD

The work of putting on the final surface on the Lafayette road from Wards corner to the Rye Lane has started and it is finished well down over Langdon's hill. The weather has of course caused a big delay in the work, but the grading is finished as far as the Rye Lane.

The foundation of the road in some places required large fills and in some places grades were cut down, but in all low places the grades were raised several feet. Out beyond the Winchester farm and in some of the sections this side a rock foundation made from the broken up stone walls along the sides of the road has been used for a permanent foundation.

The top surface is one that should wear for years and it is the first that has been applied to state roads in this state. It is a three inch top made similar to the bituminous pavement on Middle street, a mixture of heavy asphalt sand and gravel.

The plant for making the mixture which included a stone crusher, a mixer and an asphalt machine is located in the gravel pit and the material is put on hot and after being spread is rolled while warm by a light steam road roller. This makes a smooth and permanent pavement surface.

One piece of construction in across the low land near Langdon's creek where the grade was raised from two or five feet, a fill was made out on the side with a four to one shoulder of gravel. It was first intended to get the grade go off sharp and erect a railing along the fill but this was finally decided as being the best method and it will be by far the safest, for if a machine runs off the road while going at a good speed it will not be in any danger of turning over as it would if it crashed thru a railing.

The contractor C. A. Badger of this city, also has the contract from the Rye Lane to Hampton and this work will be started as soon as the Portsmouth section is completed. In addition to grading the road a number of the kinks have been taken out and the road is as near straight as it is possible to make it. The surfaced road in eighteen feet wide allowing plenty of room for two machines to pass.

DECISION RELIEVES TENSION

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Sept. 16.—The outstanding developments today in the situation of the police strike, was the decision of the city council, that come what might they would remain at their post.

The vote of the council, which was the police continued quietly and there is still grave doubts as to the outcome. The officials are worried, but they were greatly relieved when they received the news that the firemen would remain loyal.

Upon hearing of the action of the firemen Gov. Coolidge wrote a letter to Commissioner Murphy stating that it was with great pleasure that he learned that the men of the fire department took the same stand that the overwhelming majority of the public and remained loyal to their trust. He said that at the last session of the General Court provisions had been made for the shortening of the hours of the firemen. He said that the action of the firemen will materially assist them in getting the support of the public and securing for them better working conditions. He congratulated the Commissioner and then him extended his thanks to the men.

The firemen in a statement state that their union agreement was that they should not strike at any time, as it would endanger the lives and property of the people. The firemen union officials had a conference with Mr. Oyster the secretary of Samuel Gompers and he advised them to be faithful to their public trust. Mr. Oyster left for Washington this evening, and before going expressed the opinion that there would be no general strike.

4000 telephone girl operators were voting tonight. It is known that there is a strong strike sentiment, and although the voting was to end at ten o'clock the officials of the union said that it would be tomorrow before the tabulations were completed.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 16.—New England division of the American Red Cross at a conference here today with James Jackson presiding, discussed plans for peace work. Plans were made for strengthening the individual units which will raise funds for their own local needs. It was reported that the fund intended to carry thru the work already begun in supplying food clothing and medical aid in countries devastated by war as well as for the health campaign has been set at $16,000,000 for the entire country and New England's quota has been fixed at $1,330,000. To strengthen the local chapters there will be a Red Cross roll call from November 2 to 11, when every one will be asked to join the society.

Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive agent of the American Red Cross addressed the afternoon session on the general plans for the future work.

NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER TO BE APPOINTED

Police Commissioner Arthur Howard is reported to have refused a re-appointment, and it is understood that Mr. Jackson M. Washburn is an active candidate for the office. Mr. Washburn a prominent club member and a bank cashier, would make a good man for the position, and has the endorsement of the citizens and merchants.

SENATE TAKES UP PEACE TREATY WORK

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 16.—Formal debate on the German peace treaty and amendments was begun late today in the Senate after a sharp parliamentary wrangle over the demands of the Democrats that it be kept permanently before the Senate until disposed of. It had not been the intention of the leaders to take up the treaty until next week, as was indicated by the motion of Senator Smoot of Utah, to take up other business after a four hour debate.

Senator Hitchcock the democratic leader insisted that the treaty was emergency and pointed out that not one line of the treaty had been read. He drew the fire of Senator Lodge when he asked if in good faith he intended to expedite the treaty.

"My good faith and what I intend to do are my business," replied Senator Lodge with considerable feeling. Senator Hitchcock then asked Senator Lodge if he intended to carry out his promise and keep the treaty before the senate. Senator Lodge replied "I certainly do and in my own way without advice from the Senator from Nebraska." The answer of Senator Lodge was thrown back with such feeling that the crowd in the galleries broke out in applause.

The clerk had read as far as article three to the amendment of Senator Johnson to equalize the vote of Great Britain, when Senator Lodge asked that it be passed over as there were members who wanted to speak, who were not present. After some argument this was agreed upon and when the clerk started the next article Senator Lodge moved for adjournment until Friday, stating that he had promised the members including two democrats that there would be no vote until next week.

STILL MORE WORKERS NEEDED

The quota of 50 girls has nearly been reached today in response to the appeal by the local Chamber of Commerce to obtain enough help to start a new industry in this city. When the 50 names are secured the representatives of the manufacturer will come to Portsmouth and make definite arrangements for opening a factory in this city. The work is attractive, being stitching on high grade work dresses such as gingham and percale. The firm is from Boston and while it will start the factory if 50 names of women workers are secured, it much larger number will be employed later, or right away, if available.

Here is not only a chance for local women but those in the nearby towns to obtain employment. In helping to help this industry here you are helping Portsmouth. Any information may be obtained from Secretary E. H. Baker of the Chamber of Commerce.

ENJOYED SOCIAL GATHERING

At the close of the business session of the Four Leaf Clover Society a pleasant social was held in the vestry of the Christian church Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. Mildred Caswell, presided at the business session. The entertainment program of the evening consisted of readings by Miss Ruth Varrell and Miss Pauline Hughes, a vocal solo by Miss Gertrude Knowles and a little play entitled, "How the Story Grew," this bringing out how necessary it is to have charity of thought toward others and not to be ready to believe every unkind thing one hears about another as often times there is little truth in a story which started from some trivial remark.

The characters were as follows:
Mrs. Brown Pauline Hughes
Mrs. Green Ruth Varrell
Mrs. Dean Myrtle Caswell
Mrs. Murphy Gertrude Knowles
Mrs. Duellide Hazel Somerville
Mrs. Snow Alice Grace
Mrs. Taylor Sarah Ham
Mrs. White Elsie Allister

After the program refreshments of sandwiches, fancy cookies and coffee were served. This was the first fall meeting of the Four Leaf Clover Society and a pleasant social time was enjoyed by those present.

LADIES' AID HELD FIRST FALL GATHERING

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church held its first meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon in the vestry. A business session was held in the afternoon and supper was served at six o'clock. Mrs. Charles Oxford was in charge of the gathering and had as her supper committee, Mrs. Clarence Palmer, Mrs. Howard Oxford and Miss Bertha Grant. Mrs. William Bible was hostess and the Sunday school class of Mrs. Gerald Davis acted as servers. The evening was passed in a social manner, a good number of parishioners being present.

ENJOYABLE DANCING PARTY

A most enjoyable party was held on Tuesday evening when the Girls' City Club of Portsmouth under the auspices of the Girls' Division of the War Camp Community Service entertained a group of enlisted men from the U. S. S. Dolphin and the Naval Hospital Corps at an informal dancing party given at Sigumore Lodge. The members of the Club were assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. Wallace Lear, Mrs. Ernest L. Chang, Miss Florence Hewitt and Miss Mabel Boyd.

HER PACKAGE CAUSED THE EXCITEMENT

Woman Leaves Bank Book and Two Wills in the Depot While She Goes Shopping

There was plenty of excitement for awhile at the Boston and Maine depot on Monday afternoon when the woman in charge of the waiting rooms discovered a mysterious package tucked away behind the flush tanks in the toilet.

Station Agent Grant and Patrolman Philbrick were called in on the mysterious find and on opening the package found it contained a bank book, two wills, ladies' underwear, two pairs of costly shoes and other wearing apparel.

Who owned this property and who hid it in such a place was the question for the railroad and police investigating committee. Nobody could be found to make claim on it and it was decided that a mile or so from the depot had been committed and that the police had something on their hands to keep them busy.

A few hours later a woman giving her name as Ruth Leighton of Raymond came rushing into the station and in an excited manner made inquiries for the package.

The station agent and the cop shook hands when the veil of mystery was lifted on this case and the Raymond visitor's face changed from a picture of grief to success. She stated that she was afraid of losing the package while down town shopping. She may not realize it, but she would have been practicing safety first to have taken it with her.

ALL SHOULD USE PRECAUTION

This time last year Portsmouth, like so many other places, was in the throes of the influenza epidemic. Fortunately, so far, this fall the health conditions of the city are very good. One case of influenza has been reported at City Hall, but the man who is afflicted is getting on nicely. It is hoped there will be no recurrence of the epidemic this season, although many cities throughout New England are making plans to guard against the disease, if possible, and to enlist physicians for emergency service in the event of an outbreak of influenza.
